Michael Connor is a specialist barrister practising exclusively in family law – both public and private – with a focus on resolving disputes that matter most to his clients.

He regularly represents local authorities in the public care jurisdiction and acts in complex private cases involving financial remedies, property, and children. His practice also extends to private conflicts that overlap with family life, including contested inheritances, estate disputes, and claims under the Trusts of Land and Appointment of Trustees Act 1996 (TOLATA) and the Inheritance (Provision for Family and Dependents) Act 1975.

Dual-qualified in Australia and England & Wales, Michael brings over a decade of experience across two common law jurisdictions. Before relocating to the UK, he practised as a family and estate solicitor in Sydney and Melbourne, giving him a rare depth of insight into cross-border and comparative family law.

Michael's approach blends legal precision with empathy, candour, and practical strategy. He believes that effective advocacy begins with listening – understanding each client's story before shaping a tailored solution that is both creative and grounded in reality.
